

Multiple Choice

1. Answer: A

Options: A) Social consensus, Temporal immediacy, Proximity; B) Proximity, Social dissensus, Futility of effect; C) Proximity, Temporal immediacy, Social dissensus; D) Social dissensus, Cultural immediacy, Proximity

Note: Social consensus, temporal immediacy, and proximity are key components of moral intensity as they collectively influence how individuals perceive the ethical implications of their decisions and actions in a business context.

2. Answer: A

Options: A) Frederick Herzberg; B) D.C. McClelland; C) Abraham Maslow; D) Douglas McGregor

Note: Hygiene factors are a key component of Frederick Herzberg's Two-Factor Theory, which distinguishes between factors that lead to job satisfaction and those that prevent dissatisfaction in the workplace.

3. Answer: A

Options: A) Securities Act of 1933; B) Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002; C) Investment Advisers Act of 1940; D) Investment Company Act of 1934

Note: The Securities Act of 1933 regulates corporate communications by requiring that companies provide full and fair disclosure of relevant information to potential investors during the registration of new securities, thereby restricting misleading or incomplete information during that period.

4. Answer: A

Options: A) Cost leadership.; B) Differentiation.; C) Focus strategy.; D) Market follower strategy.

Note: Cost leadership allows an organization to minimize production and operational costs, enabling it to offer standard products at competitive prices while maintaining above-average profit margins.

5. Answer: D

Options: A) Placement on TV or radio; B) Stunts; C) Third parties; D) Sponsorship

Note: Sponsorship can create a 'halo effect' by associating a brand with positive attributes of the sponsored event or entity, enhancing the brand's reputation and perception in the eyes of the public.

True / False

6. Answer: True

Options: A) True; B) False

Note: The value-oriented approach emphasizes understanding and meeting customer perceptions of value, which drives pricing strategies based on what consumers are willing to pay rather than solely relying on production costs or competitor pricing.

7. Answer: True

Options: A) True; B) False

Note: Micromarketing targets specific segments of consumers who exhibit similar preferences, attitudes, and behaviors, allowing businesses to tailor their offerings to meet the unique needs of these groups.

8. Answer: False

Options: A) True; B) False

Note: Stealing or poaching customers undermines fair competition and ethical business practices, which are essential for maintaining trust and integrity in the marketplace.

9. Answer: True

Options: A) True; B) False

Note: The statement is true because the British Broadcasting Corporation (BBC) officially started its radio broadcasts on November 14, 1922, which represented a pivotal moment in the evolution of media communication by providing organized, regular broadcasts to the public.

10. Answer: True

Options: A) True; B) False

Note: Tim Berners-Lee developed the World Wide Web in 1991 by creating the first web browser and server, along with the foundational protocols and standards that enabled the interlinking of documents over the internet.

Long Form Response

11. Answer: GAP 4 in service delivery highlights the disconnect between what a service provider communicates through external promotions and the actual experience delivered to customers. For instance, misleading train advertisements that promise luxurious comfort can create high expectations among travelers. When the actual service falls short-such as uncomfortable seating or delayed services-this discrepancy leads to customer dissatisfaction. The gap not only damages the credibility of the service provider but can also erode customer trust and loyalty, as customers feel deceived by the marketing claims. Ultimately, addressing GAP 4 is crucial for enhancing customer satisfaction, as aligning communication with actual service delivery fosters a more positive and reliable customer experience.

Note: The answer correctly identifies GAP 4 as the disparity between promised and delivered service experiences, illustrating how misleading advertising can lead to heightened customer expectations that, when unmet, result in dissatisfaction and harm to the provider's credibility.

12. Answer: Democratic leadership is characterized by its inclusive approach, where leaders actively seek input and encourage participation from team members in decision-making processes. This style fosters a collaborative environment, promoting open communication and the sharing of diverse perspectives, which can lead to more innovative solutions and increased team morale. The advantages of democratic leadership include enhanced employee engagement, as team members feel valued and empowered, leading to higher job satisfaction and retention rates. Additionally, by incorporating the views and ideas of team members, organizations can benefit from a wider range of insights, ultimately improving problem-solving and decision-making outcomes. Overall, democratic leadership not only strengthens team cohesion but also drives organizational success through collective intelligence.

Note: correct because it accurately describes democratic leadership as an inclusive approach that values team input, fosters collaboration and communication, and ultimately enhances employee engagement and morale, leading to innovative solutions.