

Multiple Choice (10 marks)

1. A baby born with pulmonary hypoplasia secondary to oligohydramnios caused by renal agenesis would be classified as having:
 - (a) an association.
 - (b) a dysplasia.
 - (c) a sequence.
 - (d) a syndrome.
2. The largest Latino community in the U.S. is:
 - (a) Puerto Rican
 - (b) Mexican
 - (c) Cuban
 - (d) Brazilian
3. Which of the following is not a familial cancer syndrome
 - (a) Familial adenomatous polyposis
 - (b) Li-Fraumeni syndrome
 - (c) Von Hippel-Lindau syndrome
 - (d) Waardenburg syndrome
4. One difference that seems to be mostly cohort rather than age is the difference in _____ for different age groups
 - (a) Coping strategies
 - (b) Work productivity
 - (c) Rates of dementia
 - (d) Personality traits
5. Most surveillance systems use which of the following study designs?
 - (a) Cohort
 - (b) Serial cross-sectional
 - (c) Mortality
 - (d) Syndromic

True / False (10 marks)

Answer True or False

6. True or False: Attraction to similar individuals is solely based on physical appearance, without any influence from shared attitudes.
7. True or False: During an inferior alveolar nerve block, the needle ideally passes anterior and lateral to the medial pterygoid muscle.
8. True or False: The seventh right intercostal space in the mid-axillary line is over the upper lobe of the lung.
9. True or False: The Old Testament views sexuality as merely a biological function without social implications.
10. True or False: Working in a category IV laboratory is the biggest risk factor for infection with Ebola.

Long Form Response (20 marks)

Answer each question with a clear and complete explanation.

11. Discuss the role of Social Security as a critical component of financial stability for retirees, analyzing its impact on their overall health and well-being in the context of retirement planning.
12. Discuss the common activities that retirees engage in and analyze why certain activities, such as home renovation, may be less frequently mentioned compared to others.

End of Paper