

Multiple Choice

1. Answer: C

Options: A) a hieroglyphic written language and calendar.; B) stratified societies ruled by kings.; C) a sophisticated bronze producing industry.; D) construction of large-scale pyramids.; E) usage of gold currency.

Note: The correct answer is a sophisticated bronze producing industry because Mayan civilization, which thrived primarily in Mesoamerica, did not develop metallurgy for bronze production, relying instead on stone tools and other materials for their technological and cultural advancements.

2. Answer: B

Options: A) were primarily animal products, not plant-based.; B) were imported from other regions.; C) were domesticated before groups became sedentary.; D) were domesticated at the same time at communal farms.; E) were mainly wild crops that were not domesticated until the Bronze Age.

Note: The correct answer is based on the fact that the majority of staple crops cultivated during the European Neolithic, such as wheat and barley, were domesticated in the Fertile Crescent and subsequently introduced to Europe through migration and trade.

3. Answer: A

Options: A) simple foragers.; B) maize agriculturalists.; C) conquered by the Aztec.; D) dependent on hunting large game.; E) primarily seafaring traders.

Note: The native peoples of the northwest coast of North America were classified as simple foragers because they primarily relied on hunting, fishing, and gathering from the abundant natural resources in their environment, rather than engaging in agriculture or complex economic systems.

4. Answer: B

Options: A) formal government; B) monumental earthworks; C) urban centers; D) a permanent military

Note: The correct answer is monumental earthworks because the Hopewell culture is known for its extensive construction of large burial mounds and geometric earthworks, which served as significant ceremonial and social structures, despite lacking characteristics of a centralized state.

5. Answer: A

Options: A) the existence of a written language; B) the number of years the civilization has existed; C) the civilization's religious beliefs and practices; D) whether warfare can be ended; E) the size of the civilization's population

Note: The existence of a written language is crucial for the collapse of civilizations as it facilitates the recording and transmission of knowledge, laws, and cultural practices, which are essential for societal cohesion and governance, thereby influencing stability and resilience in the face of challenges.
