

Multiple Choice (10 marks)

1. Which of the following considers states to be the primary actors in international relations?
 - (a) Realism
 - (b) Idealism
 - (c) Liberalism
 - (d) None of the above
2. The realm of policy decisions concerned primarily with relations between the United States and the rest of the world is known as
 - (a) terrorism policy.
 - (b) economic policy.
 - (c) foreign policy.
 - (d) international policy.
3. In which year was the seminal Human Development Report published?
 - (a) 1987
 - (b) 1997
 - (c) 1994
 - (d) 2004
4. Which of the following is essential to societal security?
 - (a) Sovereignty.
 - (b) Identity.
 - (c) All of these options.
 - (d) Hegemonic ethnicity.
5. Growing tension between the United States and the Soviet Union resulted in a policy that John Foster Dulles referred to as
 - (a) "mutual assured destruction."
 - (b) "brinkmanship."
 - (c) "realism."
 - (d) "not in my backyard."

True / False (10 marks)

Answer True or False

6. True or False: Liberal Internationalists believe that the US should withdraw from the international arena and act independently without alliances.
7. True or False: Motivational realism suggests that greedy states are driven by a desire to increase wealth and spread their ideology.
8. True or False: The North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) is considered the most significant international organization in terms of global governance.
9. True or False: Inefficient balancing or buckpassing by states can lead to a more competitive international system.
10. True or False: Realists argue that the international system is characterized by anarchy, distinguishing it from the order of domestic systems.

Long Form Response (20 marks)

Answer each question with a clear and complete explanation.

11. Discuss the argument presented by Braun and Chyba (2004) regarding indigenous nuclear programs and their impact on the effectiveness of proliferation safeguards. What evidence supports this perspective?
12. Discuss the economic transformations that occurred due to World War I, particularly how the war shifted economic power from Europe to the United States and the implications of this shift.

End of Paper