

Multiple Choice (10 marks)

1. We know less about why certain stimuli are attractive to humans than we do about what is attractive to fish. Discuss this statement.
 - (a) Attractiveness can be precisely measured and quantified in all individuals.
 - (b) We fully understand the factors that determine human attractiveness.
 - (c) Attractiveness is a trait that humans are born understanding completely.
 - (d) Human attractiveness is determined by a single genetic marker.
 - (e) The principles of attractiveness in humans have been fully mapped out by neuroscience.
2. Piaget's theory describes stages of cognitive development _____.
 - (a) During adolescence only
 - (b) From birth to late childhood only
 - (c) During infancy only
 - (d) From birth to early adulthood only
 - (e) From infancy through adolescence only
3. The belief that a child's misbehavior has one of four goals - i.e., attention, revenge, power, or to display inadequacy - is most consistent with:
 - (a) Bandura's social learning theory.
 - (b) Skinner's operant conditioning theory.
 - (c) Maslow's hierarchy of needs theory.
 - (d) Beck's cognitive-behavioral therapy.
 - (e) Pavlov's classical conditioning theory.
4. What do psychologists generally accept as the causes of functional psychoses?
 - (a) Childhood experiences
 - (b) Astrological signs and birth months
 - (c) Educational background and intelligence quotient (IQ)
 - (d) Exercise frequency and body mass index (BMI)
 - (e) Use of technology and media consumption
5. _____ is the most frequent cause of many of the ethical complaints brought against psychotherapy supervisors.

- (a) Negligence in supervision
- (b) Incompetence
- (c) Misuse of authority
- (d) Sexual harassment
- (e) Lack of timely feedback

True / False (10 marks)

Answer True or False

- 6. True or False: Surprise is not classified as one of the primary facial expressions recognized in psychological research.
- 7. True or False: Time-out procedures rely on classical conditioning to associate negative experiences with specific behaviors.
- 8. True or False: Stimulus satiation involves the repeated presentation of a stimulus until its attractiveness is diminished for the client.
- 9. True or False: Strong organizational culture is correlated with low levels of job commitment in the workplace.
- 10. True or False: The Whorfian hypothesis asserts that all languages share the same phonetic structures, leading to universal tone systems.

Long Form Response (20 marks)

Answer each question with a clear and complete explanation.

- 11. Discuss the concept of Type II error and the factors that influence statistical power, specifically analyzing the impact of sample size on power in hypothesis testing.
- 12. Discuss the role of the basal ganglia in the Cannon-Bard theory of emotion, analyzing its significance and implications for understanding emotional processing in the brain.

End of Paper