

Multiple Choice (10 marks)

1. Mulholland (1998) argued that privatization changed the relationship between companies and managers in that:
 - (a) flexibility was reduced by the introduction of detailed daily worksheets
 - (b) the state had greater control than managers over production processes
 - (c) ownership was transferred from small shareholders to senior managers
 - (d) employment depended on performance rather than trust and commitment
2. Mass-society theory suggests that:
 - (a) the content of the media is determined by market forces
 - (b) the subordinate classes are dominated by the ideology of the ruling class
 - (c) the media manipulate 'the masses' as vulnerable, passive consumers
 - (d) audiences make selective interpretations of media messages
3. Structural-Functionalists describe society as:
 - (a) a complex network of interaction at a micro-level
 - (b) a source of conflict, inequality, and alienation
 - (c) an unstable structure of social relations
 - (d) a normative framework of roles and institutions
4. Traditional working class identity was based around:
 - (a) shared working conditions in the manufacturing industry
 - (b) the class consciousness of members of the proletariat
 - (c) local communities, extended kinship networks and shared leisure pursuits
 - (d) collective aspirations to move into the middle class
5. Which of the following is a personal document with closed access?
 - (a) government 'white paper'
 - (b) confidential medical records
 - (c) household account book
 - (d) the shares register of a business

True / False (10 marks)

Answer True or False

6. True or False: Butler & Stokes (1969) argued that working class support for the Labour Party is largely influenced by socialization in their families and communities.
7. True or False: The ecological approach to urban sociology examines how social groups colonize different areas of the city and compete for resources.
8. True or False: The print revolution resulted in the public ownership of newspapers, making them a shared resource for all citizens.
9. True or False: Secularization involves the concepts of disengagement from religious institutions and disenchantment with religious beliefs.
10. True or False: The most commonly used recreational drug in Britain is Ecstasy, surpassing all other substances in popularity.

Long Form Response (20 marks)

Answer each question with a clear and complete explanation.

11. Discuss the significance of Auguste Comte in the development of sociology as a discipline, including the implications of his ideas on modern social theory.
12. Discuss the implications of a population pyramid that is wider at the bottom than at the top, particularly in relation to historical birth and death rates over several generations.

End of Paper